All the hard work, going door-to-door telling their story, visiting countless Rotary Clubs and organizations across the state paid off for sugar workers in the Glades.

Amendment 4, a billion dollar tax on Florida's sugar industry was defeated by the voters of Florida by a solid 54 percent.

As late as a few weeks ago, farmers were nail-biting worried. The polls were showing that if the vote were taken then, the tax would have passed, crippling the small farmers in the Glades.

Several farmers give their reactions to the vote:

Roger Hutton, sugarcane farmer, Pahokee

"I'm encouraged to see the diverse segments of our community working together to achieve the common goal of preservation of our agricultural community.

It's only by God's grace that the victory we enjoy, this "no" vote on Amendment 4, was achieved.

A few short weeks ago we were far behind in the polls. It was generally thought to be impossible to defeat the amendment. It was heart-warming to see farmers working side-by-side with management and labor canvassing central and south Florida door-to-door and manning all the voting precincts.

Leadership representing the three major mill owners, Fio Sun Corporation, United States Sugar Corporation and the Belle Glade Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative, along with Tallman, is to be praised for uniting to preserve our communities' way of life.

This issue has proven what can be accomplished when we all work together. This Glades area is truly a special place."

Fritz Stein, sugar cane farmer, Belle Glade

"The Everglades won tonight. We can now approach the solution to the Everglades situation on the scientific and proper basis for the future."

Wayne Boynton, sugar cane farmer, Pahokee

"Defeating Amendment 4 is comparable to winning only a single battle in a bigger war. But, this was our D-Day. We have to continue to fight the war to clear our names.

Because of the Save Our Everglades organization and Paul Tudor Jones, millions of Floridians now believe that sugarcane farmers kill deer, fish, and manatees, add mercury to the water and food chain, and contaminate the drinking water of South Florida, and are ruining a national park."

We must remember that Amendment 4 was defeated because of the tax implications and the resultant effect on jobs, not on whether or not sugarcane farmers are polluting.

I think it is imperative that we use the new Amendment 5 and good scientific research to prove we are not the cause of every environmental problem that exists in South Florida.

We owe that effort to the millions who voted for us, and we must prove to our own children and grandchildren that we are not polluting the Everglades."

Nelson Fairbanks, President and CEO of U.S. Sugar Corporation

"The voters of Florida have spoken loud and clear in rejecting the penny-a-pound, billion-dollar tax scheme.

First, I want to thank the people of Florida for rejecting this destructive tax.

Second, I want to thank the thousands of employee-owners and independent farmers who spent the last eight days going door-to-door campaigning throughout Florida. They personally visited one million homes and this made the difference in the election. The voters didn't want to punish these hard-working men and women by taxing them out of business.

I and the other sugar farmers are committed to Everglades restoration and we pledge to do our fair share in finishing the job of ensuring that the Everglades ecosystem is preserved forever. We want to show the people of Florida that sugar is the best environmental crop that can be grown in South Florida and that farmers are working hard to protect the environment."

Bob Baker, Senior Vice President of U.S. Sugar

"The people of Florida saw through the deception and lies of the Save Our Everglades political action committee. Paul Tudor Jones may be a billionaire but he can't buy the Constitution from Floridians. He poured money and lies into the campaign, but in the end, Paul Tudor Jones found out he can't buy nor bamboozle Floridians.

Barbara Miedema, Public Relations, Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative

"We would like to thank the people of the Glades, as well as all Floridians, for their help in assuring that an unnecessary tax was rejected.

The people of the Glades came forward, they worked long and hard and we appreciate all their efforts.

We're looking forward to moving ahead with the Everglades Forever Act. We consider this a win for the Everglades.

We can now move forward and put politics aside and do what's best for our national treasure."

Over 20,000 raised for needy at the Red Cross fashion show

By Brenda Bunting
Editor

Over $20,000 was raised to help local residents last Saturday.

The Fifth Annual Saks Fifth Avenue and American Red Cross Luncheon and Fashion Show was held Saturday, Nov. 2, at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center.

Mrs. Jeanette Dexter, chairwoman of the event for the fifth year in a row, said the event was very successful again this year, raising money to help local fire victims and those in need. This event began at 11 a.m. with a Silent Auction and Social Hour, followed by a gourmet lunch at noon and closing with the fashion show.

The fashion show featured apparel and accessories exclusively from Saks Fifth Avenue in Palm Beach, modeled by local Belle Glade residents. The Silent Auction featured many nice items donated by local and county merchants.

Glades Red Cross Director, Scottie Smith, said the silent auction alone brought in over $3,500.

Over 350 people attended, paying $95 each for the luncheon and show. Mrs. Dexter said the majority of the cost involved with putting on the event was underwritten by generous donations.

For pictures of the event, see Page 8.

Fred Sanford's Disease

by Paula Swaford, RN

Most of you who read this column are old enough to remember the sit-com called "Sanford and Son". Fred always seemed to have his arthritis flare up when Lemont wanted him to do one task or another. Most of us in our lifetime will develop some degree of arthritis, whether it be from an old injury or just as a degenerative change attributed to aging. These are some hints to help you battle "arthritis" and I hope they will be helpful.

1. Stay Flexible.
Range of motion and strengthening exercises help to maintain the function of arthritic joints. Applying heat before exercise, as in a hot bath or shower, helps to prepare joints.

2. Keep active.
Try to exercise three times a week for at least 15 minutes, at a time of day when you're feeling your best, and choose activities that use large muscles without a lot of stress on joints. It is my firm belief that one of the secrets to longevity is to stay as active as you can for as long as you can. Instead of trying to get the closest parking spot, park a good distance from wherever you're going, and you'll exercise and not even know it!

3. Get plenty of rest.
Short, ten to 20 minute rests during the day can help daily activities put less strain on your joints.

4. Avoid stress and strain.
Learn to prioritize your duties, and ask for help from family and friends when you need it.

5. Eat a healthy diet.
A well-balanced diet that's low in fat, with adequate protein and calcium is recommended. Limit your intake of alcohol, sugar and salt. Certain foods may worsen arthritis symptoms in some people.

6. Lose excess weight.
Extra pounds can make pain worse and movement more difficult, adding stress and strain on your afflicted joints.

7. Practice good posture.
Lift objects carefully, using leg muscles instead of back muscles. Also, move around often when on long car trips, and take "stretch breaks".

8. Ask your physician about assistive devices.
Canes or crutches can be helpful, as well as special collars if your neck is affected.

Also, under-counter jar openers and long-handled reachers to retrieve items from top shelves are convenient.

9. Apply heat to joints.
Moist heat can relax muscles and may relieve pain and stiffness. Dry methods of applying heat include: heat lamps, electric heating pads and hot water bottles. Use all of these with caution.

10. Take pain relievers when needed.

If non-prescription pain relievers don't take care of the pain sufficiently, ask your doctor for a prescription medication.

Till next time...stay healthy and stay informed.

How do they do that? Mike Lyons gets the scoop on tabloid weather

by Mike Lyons

I had no idea that I was about to create an incident. There I was standing in the usual long line at my neighborhood grocery store with my arms full of food: two loaves of bread, a jar of peanut butter, several bananas and a gallon of milk.

Surprisingly, I wasn't having any trouble juggling my assorted groceries until my eyes swept across the front page of one of those tabloid newspapers. That's when the incident began. I dropped the bread and the bananas. Then, I started to laugh. Loudly.

"JFK, Jr. Dumps Girlfriend", the headline boldly proclaimed. This "newspaper" obviously had gone to press several days before America's most eligible bachelor married the girl he supposedly dumped. It's a good thing they don't predict the weather, I thought. Then, I picked up my bananas.

Yet, there is a weather equivalent of those tabloid newspapers. And, like the "rags" that report Elvis sightings, the inside scoop on Hollywood stars and JFK's supposedly troublesome love life, these publications often make promises they can't possibly keep.

But, no one seems to mind because, like the tabloid newspapers, no one seems to take these publications too seriously. Chances are you have one at home right now. It's called the Old Farmer's Almanac.

For 207 consecutive years,

the Old Farmer's Almanac has been doing something that no self-respecting meteorologist would ever dare to attempt: predict a full year's worth of weather. Not only does the Almanac forecast the weather for the next 12 months, but its editors claim an 80 percent accuracy rate.

How do they do it? I'm afraid they won't tell us. It's a "secret weather forecasting formula" devised by founder Robert B. Thomas over 200 years ago. A formula that still exists today and is kept in a black tin box at the Almanac's office in New Hampshire.

The Old Farmer's Almanac is the latest in a long line of almanacs that folks have delighted in for centuries. Almanacs first showed up in Germany in the early 16th century and were an immediate success.

After all, here was a publication with the audacity to predict the weather - something most people at that time thought was impossible. When the almanac actually seemed to get the forecast correct, their popularity soared.

Ben Franklin was one of the first people in the New World to jump on the almanac bandwagon. His "Poor Richard's Almanac", first published in 1732, was a best-seller for 25 years.

Franklin knew the weather forecasts were hogwash, but the reading public didn't seem to care. So, Franklin liked to have some fun with his weather prognostications.

In the 1733 edition, for example, readers learned that the weather on January 7 could be interesting. "Snow if not warm at this time," the almanac declared.

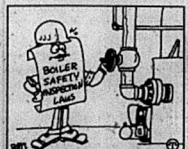

The forecast from this year's Old Farmer's Almanac is a little more definite. "The period from November through March is expected to be colder than normal," the almanac says.

Yet there are other predictions that would have made Franklin proud. The forecast for June 13-15, 1997 calls for "hot and humid weather." That's not exactly going out on a limb, is it?

By the way, when you check out this year's almanac, make sure your groceries are in a basket. Otherwise, you could create an incident.

Important Safety Legislation

(NAPS)—Do your state's current laws adequately provide for safety inspections of boilers and pressure vessels? Answering this question can be very important to your health and welfare.

It's important to know how your state stands on important life-saving issues, such as boiler safety inspection laws.

The person who can best answer such questions is the chief boiler inspector in your jurisdiction. Boiler inspection programs—which save lives, property damage and productivity—can be run by most states for nothing. Most programs pay for themselves through fees they collect and some even contribute excess monies back to the general fund.

It's important to ensure that state legislation will strengthen and enforce the boiler and pressure vessel inspection and safety laws that keep us safe at home, at school, at work, at worship and at play.

For the name of the chief boiler inspector in your area, write to The National Board of Boiler and Pressure Vessel Inspectors, Communications Department, 1055 Crupper Avenue, Columbus, Ohio 43229-1183, call (614) 888-8320 or send e-mail to getinfo@nationalboard.org.

Mock Election at West Tech

The student body of West Technical Education Center participated in the 1996 statewide mock election that involved over 900 schools on October 30. The program allowed students the opportunity to participate, actively in the political process by simulating an actual election.

The Mock Election Committee of Harma Miller,

Pat Kujawski, Eva Cortez, Dom Balzano and the Student Government, utilized actual voting booths and a ballot box, provided by Diane Carter from Belle Glade City Hall, and "I voted" stickers to add realism to the program.

The mock ballot included the Presidential, Congressional and State Attorney race, as well as seven local issues. In addition, the one cent tax on a pound of sugar was included on the West Tech ballot.

Of the more than 250 ballots that were cast, 74% voted for Bill Clinton, 15% for Bob Dole and 11% for Ross Perot. A sampling on the local issues found that 74% voted "yes" for the government to allow prayer in schools and 84% voted "no" on the sugar tax.

Want to Live to 100? These Ideas Will Help

(NU) - Would you like to live to be 100 — or even older?

Scientists at the American Academy of Anti-Aging Medicine predict that average life spans in the United States will soon exceed 99.5 years as widespread anti-aging programs are developed for the three largest killers: heart disease, cancer and diabetes.

Effective prevention and protection already exist to limit these diseases, and cures are expected within the next 10 years.

The fight against the effects of aging is important news for the baby boom generation as they begin turning 50. After all, who wouldn't want to be as fit at age 75 as he or she was at age 45?

Many experts on aging now think it's possible to crack the genetic code that limits the human life span. That could be the key to unlocking the potential for us to live to age 150 or beyond.

If it seems far-fetched, remember that the life span was just 48 years a century ago and is almost 50 for Americans today.

"Anti-aging is the future of medicine," says Dr. Ronald Klatz, president of the American Academy of Anti-Aging Medicine.

For now, Dr. Klatz — co-author with Dr. Robert Goldman of the book "Stopping the Clock" — points to these positive trends toward living a longer and happier life:

• Anti-aging Science: The American Academy of Anti-Aging Medicine was founded just three years ago and already represents more than 1,000 physicians, scientists and researchers in 30 countries.

The society will begin certifying physicians in the specialty of Anti-Aging Therapy in 1997.

• Hormone Replacement: Estrogen replacement after menopause has been proven to decrease premature death from heart disease and osteoporosis in women by as much as 46 percent.

• Human Growth Hormone: Injections of Human Growth Hormone have been shown to reverse the aging process by as much as 20 years, but the cost has been prohibitive — as much as $15,000 for a year's worth of injections. Newly developed oral medications can lower this cost to just $1 a day.

• DHEA: "The mother of all hormones" can restore the immune system, improve mood and memory, and strengthen muscles.

• Vitamins and Minerals: Dr. Klatz suggests that people can "stop the aging clock" with time-release doses of anti-oxidant vitamins and minerals. Ideal nutrient supplementation in therapeutic doses (often 4 to 20 times the RDA) minimizes damage to organs and slows the effects of aging so much that lab animals benefit from 25 percent longer life spans, 75 percent less cancer, and 85 percent less heart disease and stroke.

The largest and most ambitious conference on anti-aging science and medicine is scheduled for Dec. 14 to 16 at the Alexis Park Resort in Las Vegas. The event is expected to attract more than 2,500 specialists in this growing field and is open to the public.

For more information about the organization and its annual conference, write to the American Academy of Anti-Aging Medicine, 90 South Cascade, Colorado Springs, CO 80903, or call (719) 475-8775. Visit the World Wide Web site at www.worldwidehealth.net.

Women's Nutrition and Menopause

(NU) - The number of women experiencing menopause will soon reach record proportions as baby boomers reach middle age. And that will have a big effect on their nutritional needs.

By the year 2000, approximately 40 million American women will enter their mid 40s to early 50s and go through menopause; by the year 2020, 60 million women will have begun or have passed through "the change of life."

Improved nutrition before, during and following menopause can help decrease some of the symptoms of menopause while maintaining a healthy, youthful body and mind," says dietician Elizabeth Somer, author of "Nourishment for Women" and a spokesperson for Nature Made Vitamins.

Vegetable oils, nuts, seeds and other fat-rich foods are good sources of vitamin E, but these sources make it difficult to get an adequate daily dose without consuming a high level of fat. For that reason, nutritionists suggest the use of a vitamin E supplement.

As little as 30 IU of vitamin E has decreased symptoms in some women going through natural menopause or "artificial" menopause resulting from surgical removal of the ovaries. Mood and attitude also have improved in some menopausal women when they increase vitamin E intake.

To learn more about vitamins and menopause, call the Nature Made Healthline (1-800-276-2878), sponsored by America's No. 1 maker of broadline vitamin supplements.

Where to Turn for Help When Hair Falls Out

(NU) - When a disease causes an adult's or child's hair to fall out in patches, those who are afflicted and the people who love them often experience it as an emotional trauma. The ailment is called alopecia areata, a not uncommon condition that provokes feelings of humiliation that can result in acute psychological pain — unless treated with sensitivity and good sense.

The National Alopecia Areata Foundation, a nonprofit organization that sponsors research and information about the disease, often deals with questions about how to cope with the emotional side of alopecia areata.

Responding to last week's Speak Out

"I calling about the the Speak Out last week where the caller talked about teachers being made to listen to the sugar tax speaker. It was published in the October 31, 1996 paper.

I also read the part Dr. Effie Greer, the principal at Glades Central High wrote.

My concern about all of this is: I'm going to vote no on the sugar tax due to the fact that it is my job, that it's going to be taken away. These teachers and the Audubon Society and the Save Our Everglades people needs to stop and think about who is paying the taxes for the kids to go to school and for the teachers to get paid. It is the American farmer. And they want to gripe and belly ache add complain?

Editor's note: We apologize to this caller because the last part of their comments were lost.

Amendment Four

"Yes, I'm calling about Amendment 4. I'm voting 'NO' on Amendment 4, but what's concerning me is that U.S. Sugar is not starting their harvest until after the vote on whether the amendment goes through or doesn't go through. The scary thing is, I just hope that U.S. Sugar or the other sugar companies, if Amendment 4 does pass, that they don't use that as a crutch to un-employ people.

I really don't like what U.S. Sugar is doing by waiting for it to pass or not pass. It's really a scary thought and I just hope you print this so the sugar companies do not use Amendment 4 as a crutch to un-employ people if it doesn't go through.

I hope it doesn't pass, because I'm voting against it and all the people of Belle Glade and the surrounding counties do too.

Editor's note: I can sympathize with this caller's concern. We all must remember, however, that companies hire employees when there is work to be done and a profit to be made. If the sugar companies have to lay off employees, it's not because this is a scheme of some sort, it's pure and simple supply and demand. None of us are guaranteed a job for life. Circumstances change and businesses downsize or expand every day. It's not easy, but it's part of life. Thank you for Speaking Out.

"THIS LETTER OF COMMENDATION FROM MY BOSS IS GREAT, BUT THE STORE WOULDN'T ACCEPT IT AS PAYMENT FOR OUR GROCERIES."

Do you know how your child is doing in school?

By Celia B. Elrod

Progress reports were sent home the week of September 25 and report card time is nearly here. Have you seen any of your child's school work? Parents have the responsibility to keep up with their children's progress. Many times parents never see any grades until report card time. It's important to keep in touch with your child's school progress.

By now you should have scheduled a parent conference with your child's teacher. A Parent-Teacher conference is one of the most important occasions of the school year. The Parent-Teacher conference gives you an opportunity to meet your child's teacher, discuss your child's progress and bring up any concerns or issues you may have. More important, you can talk about ways to work together to make this year as rewarding as it can be for your child.

Appointments should be

made for conferences. This gives you and the teacher time to prepare for the event. Check with your child's school on their procedures for scheduling parent conferences.

Here are some helpful tips for a successful conference with your child's teacher:

Before the Conference
• Talk with your child about school - likes, dislikes, feelings
• Write down your concerns, academic progress, problems at home, peer relations, attitude, questions about the teacher's discipline plan or homework policy.

• If needed, arrange or have the school plan for an interpreter to be present.

During the Conference

• Discuss your concerns you've written down.

• Listen carefully to everything the teacher says and take notes for future references.

• If you don't understand something, ask to have it explained.

• Ask for suggestions for things you can do at home to help your child.

After the Conference

• Talk with your child about the conference. Share any positive comment the teacher made.

• Let your child know you are proud of them!

• Follow up with any suggestions you and the teacher agreed upon.

• Be sure to call the teacher any time you have a question or concern.

Letters to Editor...

Thanks to local veterinarian

Dear Editor:

Recently our dog, Sasha, was diagnosed with cataracts in both eyes and we later found out it was caused from diabetes. Dr. Kidder met us on a Thursday evening and kept Sasha in his office from that evening until the following Friday.

For the entire week, Sasha was given insulin and was fed by needle through the skin, as her blood sugar was high and she would not eat. He would pick up her lunch when he went to get his and finally, the day she was to come home, she ate her first chicken.

About three years ago she ingested rat poison and Dr. Kidder kept her for a week and was able to save her.

Anytime he is needed, either him or Mrs. Kidder are there for you anytime, any day, and I am so glad to know he is there when we need him.

The City of Belle Glade has a veterinarian the entire community should be proud to have in the Glades. Dr. Kidder has taken care of our pets for the past nine years and even after my husband and I moved from the community, we still would not trust our pets with anyone but "Doc."

Thank for everything, Doc!

University of Florida News

Like eager job seekers who present the right attitude, technique and dress for success, the homeless can go to great lengths to get what they need, says a University of Florida researcher.

"The homeless are more than just passive victims of their circumstances," said Amir Marvasti, a UF graduate student in sociology who spoke on homelessness at a national conference in September. "In fact, they're very deliberate in how they present themselves to be eligible for services, much like more conventional members of society try to make the right impression when applying for a job."

Most of the homeless are really, Marvasti said, but they realize that perception can be reality, so they take pains to appear in dire straits to receive services.

Parahandlers, for example, learn which scripts work best and rehearse and exchange these scripts among themselves, said Marvasti, who so far has conducted 30 in-depth interviews at a Gainesville homeless shelter for his study.

"I recall a man telling other street people that one of the most effective ways to get something to eat from a fast-food restaurant was to go there at closing late at night, bang on the door and scream of being hungry," Marvasti said.

"He argued that because the employees were preoccupied with closing the store, they would be much more likely to give you something to get you off their backs."

Another example involved a woman Marvasti observed in front of the shelter who was rehearsing her mentally deranged "act" in order to get a "crazy check," her term for the Social Security disability money available to people with mental illnesses. "In her case, mental illness was not a disorder she suffered from, but a performance that would enable her to increase her income," he said.

Marvasti said the homeless are often locked into their poverty and have become masters of survival. "In spite of their tragic circumstances, one is often moved to their desire and their hope for a better life," he said.

Generally, Marvasti found no overwhelming cause of homelessness, but a combination of economic and personal factors, including broad social inequalities. Often these people are confronted with situations beyond their control, such as medical emergencies and family crises, said Marvasti, who presented a paper on homelessness at the Society for the Study of Social Problems in New York on Aug. 16.

One middle-aged man from

New York, for example, came to Gainesville for a back operation he could not afford at home and ended up staying at the homeless shelter for four months because he did not have the money to stay in the hospital and recover, he said.

In another case, a woman sought refuge at the shelter with her two children after a brutal rape and beating caused them to miss a scheduled reunion with the father, Marvasti said. The three had left their hometown in Michigan to join the father, who came to Florida to search for work. But the woman and her sons were attacked en route to Florida, making them two days late to a Jacksonville bus-station, where they were supposed to meet the father. Not knowing where the father was staying, the family had nowhere to go, he said.

"The popular line of research suggests that the majority of homeless are mentally ill or alcoholic. This presents an image of this population that is very one-dimensional," Marvasti said. "Although problems of drug abuse and mental illness may be very significant, in reality, the lives of these people are much more complex."

The experiences of some people at the shelter even suggest that homelessness can be an accepted way of life," Marvasti said. One homeless man said he feels sorry for people who have to work every day, considering them to be enslaved by their jobs, while another said he would hate to own a watch and have to worry about missing appointments.

"I have come across talented painters, poets and writers who would prefer to live without permanent housing because, in the words of one writer, they do not believe they can be creative and work at the same time," he said. "While this hobo lifestyle certainly seems pathological in the modern sense, it was a lifestyle that was lived by many at the turn of the century."

A.C.T. presents "Death By Chocolate"

Murder, mayhem and laughter are the components of the latest Actors' Community Theatre play, "Death By Chocolate," opening November 14 and closing November 16 at 8 p.m. at John B. Boy Auditorium in Clewiston.

The murder spoof by Paul Freed is a fast moving, action-packed, slapstick comedy. The plot focuses upon two mysterious murders at a health resort. The suspects are many, allowing the audience to play sleuths.

This "who done it" mystery is hilarious because of its many zany characters. There is the wise-cracking resort manager (John Merkell), the whiny cook (Pat Lambert) and the gum-chewing secretary (Shelley Hegley). There is also the beautiful woman with the mysterious past (Bernadette Lyle). No cast would be complete without the dastardly, womanizing gym coach (Frank Lasagna); the effeminate male aerobics teacher (Hiram Had-dock); and the ever silent Sweet Pea (Haley Hutchinson). Then there is the hysterical nurse (Kristin Lasagna), the snooty but attractive reporter (Caryn Schmitz), the novelist (David Hegley), and the overly solicitous gardener (Bill Christofferson) to round out the cast.

Tickets for the production may be purchased at the box office for $7. Groups wishing special seating may call 983-6975 for reservations.

Patrons can expect not only a great show for their money, but they can expect some wonderful pre-show entertainment by a local jazz artist and a superb taste chocolate dessert bar and espresso during intermission.

David Rothstein to speak at First United Methodist Church

Rev. Ronald A. Jones, Pastor of Pahokee First United Methodist Church, invites all to hear David Rothstein speak on November 10, 1996 at the 10:55 a.m. worship service. Rothstein is an evangelist with the Florida branch of the Jews for Jesus organization.

Jews for Jesus is an agency which proclaims that Jesus is the Messiah of Israel and Savior of the world. "What could be more Jewish than following the Messiah?" says Rothstein, who considers himself 100% Jewish and 100% Christian.

Rothstein began studying the Bible with one of the Jews for Jesus staff and joined their Los Angeles based music team as guitarist and singer. In 1992, he went on the road with their national touring group, The Liberated Waiting Wall. At the end of the tour, they recorded "David's Hope," a collection of original "Jewish gospel music." He is a vocalist on the recording and he also designed the art for the cassette/CD cover. He has been assigned to the Florida station since February, 1995.

The Jews for Jesus organization was founded by Moishe Rosen, a Jew who has believed in Jesus for over 35 years. Permanent branches exist in nine North American cities, including San Francisco, Los Angeles, Dallas, New York City, Toronto, and Washington, D.C. International branches include London, Paris, Moscow, and Johannesburg. Dr. Rosen did not "start" Jews for Jesus, that began about 2,000 years ago, give or take a year. Jesus' first disciples were Jewish, and there have been some Jewish people who have believed in Him ever since.

To Rothstein and other Jews for Jesus, believing in Jesus makes sense in light of the Jewish Bible and in light of their experiences as "believers." For those who feel that Christianity is contradictory to the meaning of Judaism, Rothstein says there are answers which he will be happy to discuss after the presentation. Call (561) 924-7241 for more information. The First United Methodist Church is located at 491 East Main Street in Pahokee. There will be no admission charge.

Babes In Toyland coming to Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center on November 8.

Babes in Toyland, a merry musical holiday treat, will be playing at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center at 6 p.m., Friday, Nov. 8. Part of the Family Time Series at the theatre, tickets are $46.

Babes in Toyland, Victor Herbert's classic, was first presented on Broadway in 1903 in a show intended for adults. Theatreworks has updated it for family audiences, incorporating colorful sets and costumes, splashy special effects, lively music and dance, and a plot they say is just plain fun.

Some of the characters are from children's favorite books: Little Bo Peep, Jack and Jill, Simple Simon and Old Mother Hubbard, to name a few.

Victor Herbert's music and Glen MacDonough's lyrics (with additional lyrics by John Peel) make Babes in Toyland a perennial holiday favorite.

Award-winning Theatreworks/USA is America's largest and foremost theatre for young and family audiences. Its goal is to create shows of imagination and sophistication that educate, entertain, and convey ethical and thought-provoking messages to young people. Originating in 1961 with one show, Young Abe Lincoln, Theatreworks now has a repertoire of 70 plays and musicals created by both noted as well as fledgling playwrights, composers, and lyricists.

Tickets for Babes in Toyland can be purchased in advance by calling the theatre at 992-6160 or at the box office on Friday, Nov. 8, before the performance at 6 p.m.

1996 Auxiliary Installation Banquet Everglades Regional Medical Center

It's always nice to see a friendly smile and know someone can help direct you on a visit to a friend or relative or provide you with information about the hospital and its services. In the lobby area of ERM, you will find the smiling faces of twenty three very active members who have dedicated their time and shown commitment to the community and the hospital.

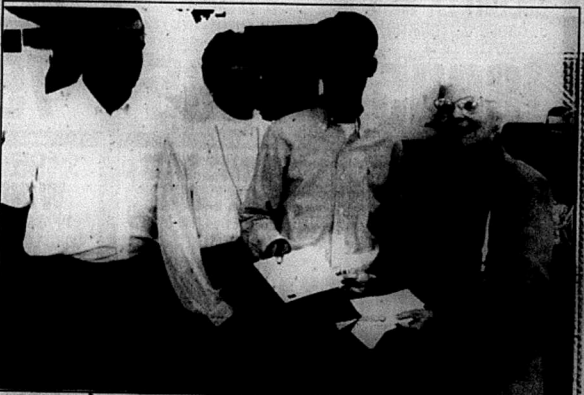

The annual installation of officers for the Everglades Regional Medical Center Auxiliary was held on Tuesday, October 22, 1996. The members of the auxiliary and their guests were welcomed by Mrs. Tommie Lee DuBose, Auxiliary President with invocation given by Mr. Buddy Lampi.

Volunteers enjoyed an exquisite prime rib dinner served by the ERM Executive staff including CEO Don Anderson; Operations Manager Lisa Miller; CFO Don Girard; and Mr. of Nursing Sonja Crouse, with meal preparation by Mrs. Marilyn Sims and the medical center's dietary staff.

Installation of officers was conducted by Mr. James A. Bennett. The highlight of the evening came with recognition and presentation of honors for the hours worked by the auxiliary members. Mr. Anderson presented Pin Awards to Mrs. Thelma Crady (10,000 hours), Mrs. Letha Mole (7,000 hours), and Mrs. Louise Lee (1,000 hours). Special thanks and appreciation was extended by Mr. Ted Gallo, Board of Trustees to all-volunteers noting the highest working hours for the year by Mrs. Frances Vorhees, Mrs. Tommie DuBose, and Mrs. Melba Johnson. The highest grand total volunteer hours recorded for the group belonged to Mrs. Ilmae Lampi, Mrs. Tommie DuBose, and Mrs. Ena Keen.

Local Artists' work displayed at the Palm Beach International Airport

Gladeview Elementary School art students spent the day at the Palm Beach International Airport on November 7.

They went to view their artwork which is on display at the third floor ticket sales area of the airport. It will be on display for the entire month of November.

The work includes painted landscapes of Winter Wonderland and African animals. The Gladeview art students take a lot of pride in combining their art lessons with academic studies.

After viewing their work, the art teachers took their students to view the permanent works of art at the airport.

Hats off to these young artists: Olivia Mata, Vintrell Jones, Betaida Ros, Iris Jackson, John Williams, Sylvia Gomez, Martell Jones, Prantz Simeon, Joseph Simmons, Michelle Miller, Olicia Brown, Kinnard Carey, Antoine Glover, and Angelle Brown.

Glades Day Gators travel to Moore Haven for District match-up

Glades Day Gators will travel to Moore Haven to face the Terriers in a District game.

The Gators coming off a 20 - 13 loss to Hollywood Christian, needs a win over Moore Haven. The Gators made a few mistakes last week that they can not afford to make in this week's game.

Moore Haven is coming in with a win over St. Edwards, and are charged and ready to take on the Gators.

The Gators went into Saturdays' game against Hollywood Christian averaging 250 yards rushing per game but only managed to get 74 yards against Hollywood Christian.

Moore Haven rushed for 339 yards on 56 carries in the game against St. Edwards.

Kick-off for Glades Day and Moore Haven will be at 7:30 p.m.

"Just give me the ball, I can do it", said Andre Bryant

WHAT A PLAY!—Glades Central senior tailback Andre Bryant was asked by the coaches and players, "Can you do it?" His reply, "Just give me the ball." Andre gets a big hug from Coach Desmond Harriott after he made the winning touchdown.

Glades Central Raiders beat Santaluces 26-20 in overtime play

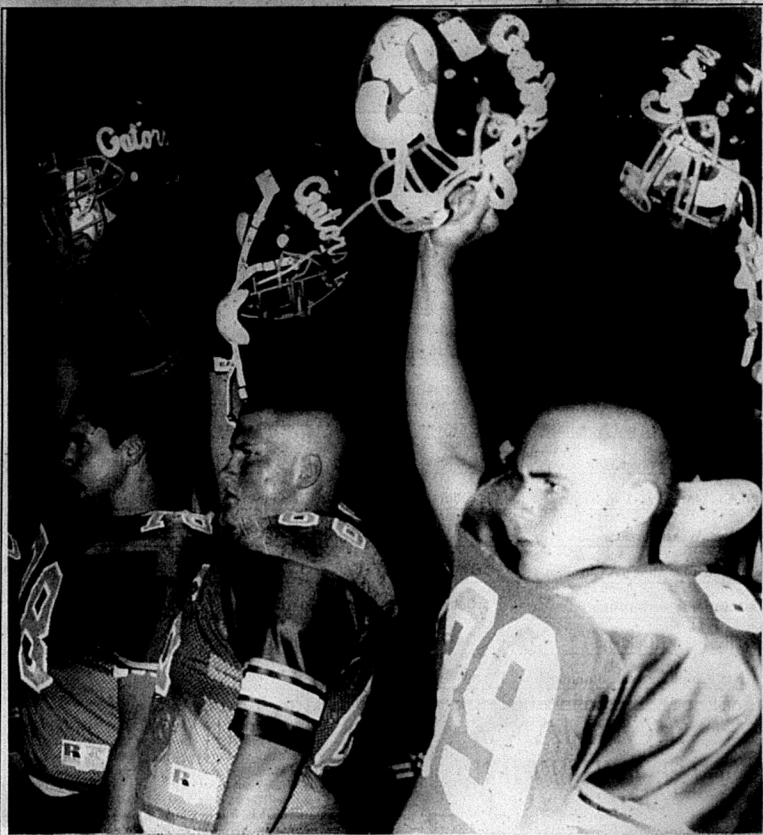

Glades Central's Andre Bryant saved the day for the Raiders Friday night by scoring the game-winning touchdown. Bryant, senior tailback, completed a 5-yard run in overtime to scoot the Raiders ahead of the Santaluces Chiefs, 26-20.

Next week, the Raiders play

Suncoast in a game at home.

Their final game, Nov. 15, will be the big event between the Raiders and the Pahokee Blue Devils. This game always draws a big crowd of Raider and Blue Devil fans for the "Muckbowl Game."

That game will be at Glades Central, 7:30 p.m.

Pahokee prepares to face Cardinal Newman for district match-up

The Blue Devils hosted the Boca Raton Bobcats at the Pahokee homecoming.

The Pahokee Blue Devil gridders had their winning streak snapped by the Bobcats.

The Bobcats were able to avenge their 1995 6-3 loss to Pahokee.

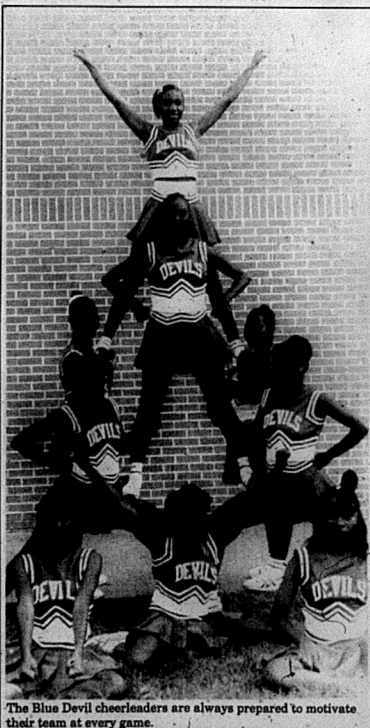

The Blue Devils led for most of the first half, but were unable to hold on in the second half as the Bobcats drove down the field four times for scores. The Blue Devils seemed out of sync but managed to score twice.

Friday night the Blue Devils will travel to West Palm Beach to meet Cardinal Newman in a district match-up.

This game will determine which 3A team has home-field advantage during the Post season play-offs.

Jimmy said he picked the Glades Day School Gators and Pahokee's Blue Devils to win last week. Everyone was disappointed when that didn't pan out, but we're still behind our local teams! Go Gators! Go Raiders! And go Blue Devils!

Only a couple more weeks to go and Gary Melvin with Steve Moore is right behind Jimmy with 49 correct picks. Many of our players are just a few points behind, though, with 46 correct picks.

You Put 100% Into Every Project. Your Home Equity Loan Should Do The Same.

Call us at 1-800-Barnett 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

It's your home. You give it your all. You even paint where prying eyes will never see. You deserve a home equity loan from people who think as much of your pride and joy as you do. And that's Barnett, with another idea for the way you live. The Barnett 100% Loan-To-Value (LTV) Home Equity loan. A loan based on your home's full value, not the usual 70 to 80%. Even new home owners may qualify.

With a rate significantly lower than most forms of credit and potential tax deductibility—plus, a closing costs waiver of up to $500, the Barnett 100% LTV Home Equity loan goes the extra mile in more ways than one.

Gators Tales

The month of November is here and it's the end of another grading period. Students are busy this week with final exams for the second six weeks' grading period and then it's time for Homecoming!

After having Monday off due to Veteran's Day, Homecoming will officially start with "dress-up" days for Spirit

Week. Tuesday will be Twins Day, when students (and faculty) can look alike, dress alike and even walk and talk alike. Everyone may come as they are on Wednesday for Deejays Day (keep it decent, though!) and then Thursday will be Graffiti Day, where everyone is encouraged to wear a white t-shirt and bring a marker to let others write a message on their shirts. Friday will be Spirit Day and we hope that all Gator fans will wear the school colors of green, gold and white that day.

The Student council introduced this year's homecoming theme to the student body a few weeks ago and faculty and students have been brainstorming for float ideas for "Gators at Sea." Their efforts will be on display in the homecoming parade that will be held at 1 p.m. next Friday, November 15.

Congratulations go to Amie and Eddie Motes, who won the 1996 Ford Probe sponsored by the Booster Club at the Fall Festival. Although both of their names were on the ticket, her family decreed that 17-year-old Amie would get the car. Eddie, who at 15 still has to wait another year for his license, will have to settle for something else down the line. Other winners of drawings included: Lanie Dixon, gun;

Franklin Shutts, binoculars; Bill Bailey, quilt.

The varsity football team is headed for a showdown for the district title this Friday evening with a game scheduled at Moore Haven at 7:30 p.m. A win would make the Gators district champions while a loss would put them in a three way tie with Moore Haven and Ft. Lauderdale Westminster, assuming Westminster defeats American Heritage Friday night also. The Gators, coming off a disappointing loss to Hollywood Christian, will certainly be up for this game. LET'S GO, GATORS!

KEC Canal Point Elementary Pre-K class participates in My Family/My Home

For the past weeks our Pre-K class has been working on the unit My Family/My Home. "The children have worked very hard" said Mrs. Hill. They have reinforced their social skills, manners and taking responsibilities in the home. After working on this unit we cooked a family dinner, the kids made their own table mats.

Parent Involvement teacher Ms. Gloria Williams joined in with the children as they were eating. It's very important that we as teachers and parents work together with our children.

Our Family Involvement center is open on Wednesday evenings from 6-8 p.m. Parents are encouraged to come in during school hours also. Volunteers are needed.

For more information about our Family Involvement Center and how you can become a volunteer, contact Ms. Gloria Williams at 924-6460.

most cans each month wins an ice-cream party.

If your business/church would like to help in our efforts, please contact Janell Leatherman at Kathryn E. Cunningham Canal Point school for more information.

Don't forget - send your students with cans! 924-6460.
